

---

Charles Newhouse

CHIEF TECHNOLOGY OFFICER UK & EUROPE

---

Charles Newhouse is the Chief Technology Officer of Leidos UK and Europe. In his role, Charles is responsible for shaping the direction of our engineering and technology capabilities, to support our clients achieve their goals, and the delivery of our business strategy.

Previously, Charles was Global Consulting Director at BAE Systems Applied Intelligence having held many leadership roles. Charles is an experienced operational and technical leader with a strong background in developing strategy, developing teams and managing budgets. He has a proven record of accomplishment, providing operationally pragmatic technology solutions to complex ambiguous business challenges. His engineering and systems background allows him to operate in complex environments, providing the interchange simplifying, contextualising and communicating challenges and opportunities for a business audience.

Charles holds a Masters Degree in Electronic Engineering from the University of Southampton and is a Chartered Management Consultant.